

Privacy Policy

Introduction

Techlent, Inc. respects your privacy and is committed to protecting it. This is the Privacy Policy for www.techlent.net and all corresponding domains, subdomains, web pages and websites associated therewith (the “Site”), and any other content, applications, features, functionality, information and services offered by us through the Site (collectively the “Services”), and it applies to all users of the Services, whether you are accessing and/or using the Services as a registered user or otherwise. Please review our Terms of Service Agreement which governs your use of the Services. Any capitalized terms that are not defined in this Privacy Policy shall have the meaning given in the Terms of Service Agreement.

This Privacy Policy governs only the information we collect in connection with your use of the Services. This Privacy Policy does not cover any other information collected in any other manner or collected by any other entity, unless specifically stated.

Effective Date: April 25, 2019

Information We Collect

We generally collect two types of information from and about you on or in connection with the Services:

Personally identifiable information that would allow someone to identify you or contact you, such as your name, e-mail address, etc., and other background information that you include in your User Account profile (“Personal Information”).

All other information other than Personal Information, which does not personally identify you (“Non-Personal Information,” together with Personal Information shall be collectively referred to herein as “Information”).

We collect Information in multiple ways:

When you provide it to us or when you give us permission to obtain it, which may include, without limitation, the following types of Information:

Information you submit to register for the Services, including, without limitation, in order to create your User Account.

In order to participate in and/or use certain features and functionality of the Services, such as interactive and community features, message and comment functionality, posting and other functionality (which may, in certain instances, be subject to Additional Terms and requirements which will determine who can see such Information), you may be asked to provide certain Information about yourself and provide additional consent in order to personalize and/or allow you to use these features and functions.

The Services may present you with the opportunity to sign up to receive newsletters, email correspondence and/or other communications from us in order for us to provide up-to-date information about the Services, and to publicize and promote certain content, products and services offered by us, our business partners and/or other third parties. When there is a separate sign-up for communications, we may ask for your contact information such as name and email address, and, sometimes, demographic and profile information. We will ask you to confirm your consent to any such uses at the time you sign up for these services or communications.

Information you provide to us when you contact us for technical, operational or other support or otherwise provide any comments or feedback to us.

When you connect a Third Party Service (Facebook, Google, LinkedIn, etc.) to the Services or enable functionality from Third Party Services as part of your use of the Services, we may receive information from the applicable provider of the Third Party Service that you have consented to be shared pursuant to its terms and conditions, whether made available via an application programming interface or otherwise, as well as other Information about you or your use of the Services within that Third Party Service. Such functionality may also perform actions on your behalf on the Third Party Service that are known to the Third Party Service or others. Even if you delete your account on a Third Party Service, we will retain any Information provided by that Third Party Service. Similarly, if you delete or deactivate your account on the Services, any Information that we have shared with Third Party Services (in accordance with this Privacy Policy) may be retained by those Third Party Services subject to their privacy policies. We strive to work only with third parties that adhere to data privacy practices at least as protective of users as this Privacy Policy.

We may automatically collect certain Information about your equipment, browsing actions and other patterns by using certain automatic data collection technologies when you visit, access and/or interact with the Services, including:

Log Files – When you use the Services, our servers automatically collect certain Information including Information that your browser and/or Device sends whenever you visit a website and/or use the applicable Device. Such Information may include your IP address, browser type and settings, and other usage data.

Information about Your Device – We may also collect Information about the Device that you access and/or use the Services on, including what type of Device it is, unique Device identifiers, and other data provided by your applicable third party service provider and/or Device manufacturer. You should read the policies of such third parties in order to learn more about what Information your Device makes available.

Other Non-Personal Information – Other Non-Personal Information related to your use of the Services, including usage, traffic data and other communication data and resources that you access when you interact with the Services.

We may supplement the Information we collect with information from other sources, such as publicly available information from commercially available sources and information from our affiliates or business partners.

Automatic Data Collection Technologies

The Information we collect automatically (as described above) is Non-Personal Information. It helps us to improve our Services and to deliver a better and more personalized user experience by enabling us, among other things, to store information about your preferences and to customize our Services. The technologies we use for this automatic data collection may include:

Cookies (or browser cookies) – A cookie is a small file placed on your device. You may refuse to accept browser cookies by activating the appropriate setting on your browser. However, if you select this setting you may be unable to access certain parts of the Services. Unless you have adjusted your browser setting so that it will refuse cookies, our system will issue cookies when you direct your browser to the Services.

Flash Cookies – Certain features of the Services may use local stored objects (or Flash cookies) to collect and store Information about your preferences and navigation to, from and on the Services. Flash cookies are not managed by the same browser settings as are used for browser cookies.

Web Beacons – Pages of the Services may contain small electronic files known as web beacons (also referred to as clear gifs, pixel tags and single-pixel gifs) that permit Techlent, for example, to count users who have visited those pages and/or for other related statistics.

Third Party Advertising Service Providers

The Services may also use a variety of third party advertising networks, data exchanges, traffic measurement service providers, marketing analytics service providers and other third parties (collectively, “Third Party Advertising Service Providers”) to, for example, serve advertisements on the Services, facilitate targeting of advertisements and/or measure and analyze advertising effectiveness and/or traffic on the Services. These

Third Party Advertising Service Providers do not have access to any tracking technologies set by the Services except to the extent necessary to provide services to us in connection with the Services; however, these Third Party Advertising Service Providers may use their own tracking technologies to collect similar Information. Techlent does not control these Third Party Advertising Service Providers, and/or their use of tracking technologies, which is instead governed by the privacy policies of any such Third Party Advertising Service Providers. Please see Section 10 below for more information on how to opt-out of the collection and use of Information collected via certain automatic collection technologies.

How We Use And Disclose Your Information

We do not sell your information to third-parties. However, we may use and/or disclose the Information we collect to provide the Services (and all features of the Services) to you, including, without limitation, as follows:

To measure and improve the Services, as well as improve your experience with both online and offline Services by delivering content that you will find relevant and interesting, including advertising and marketing messages.

To provide you with customer support and to respond to inquiries.

To allow service providers, contractors and other third parties to assist us in providing and managing the Services.

To contact you and send Notices.

To verify your identity for purposes of protecting your Information and/or responding to a request described in the User Rights heading.

The Services may provide you and other Users with an opportunity to participate in viewing communities and other message, comment and communication features on the Services, including in connection with Third Party Services, and may provide you with the opportunity to submit, post, publish and otherwise make available User Content to other Users of the Services or to the public. Certain Personal Information associated with the User Content, for example, your name, photograph and User Account profile information, may be disclosed. We will disclose any such Personal Information in connection with the display of, and other services relating to, such User Content and by submitting User Content on the Services.

Techlent may further share and disclose your Information as follows:

Techlent may share your Information with affiliates of Techlent for the purposes described in this Privacy Policy.

Techlent may share your Information with business partners to permit them to send you marketing communications consistent with your choices and preferences.

Techlent may disclose your Information where Techlent has a good faith belief that such disclosure is necessary in order to: (i) protect, enforce, or defend the legal rights, privacy, safety, or property of Techlent and their respective employees, agents and contractors (including enforcement of our agreements and our Terms of Service Agreement); (ii) protect the safety, privacy, and security of Users of the Services or members of the public; (iii) protect against fraud or for risk management purposes; (iv) comply with the law or legal process; and/or (v) respond to requests from public and government authorities.

If Techlent sells all or part of its business or makes a sale or transfer of its assets or is otherwise involved in a merger or transfer of all or a material part of its business, Techlent may transfer your Information to the party or parties involved in the transaction as part of that transaction.

Additionally we may use and/or disclose your Information in any other way we may describe when you provide the Information and/or receive your consent.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, we may use any and all Non-Personal Information collected from or about you for any reasonable purpose that is necessary to provide the Services or other related product and/or service requested. You can choose to opt-out of certain such uses as described below.

Retention of Your Information

We retain your Information for as long as it is needed to provide you with Services, or for other purposes described in this Privacy Policy. We do not retain your Information for longer than is necessary for these purposes. The retention period for any particular Information will vary depending on the nature of that Information and the purposes for which it is collected and processed, your exercise of the rights set forth below, and applicable laws.

User Rights

We strive to provide you with the ability to access, review, correct, update, suppress, or otherwise limit our use of the Information you have previously provided directly to us, including:

Via Your User Account Settings – If you have registered for a User Account, you may have the ability to access and use certain features and functionality that provide you with the ability to set certain privacy, permissions, and User Account options. Please be aware that that if you limit the collection of certain Information, you may not be able to use all of the features and functionality of the Services.

Via Email/Mail – You may also contact us by email or mail using the contact information under the “Contact Us” heading below. In your request, please provide your State or Country of residence, a description of your user activity (Program registration(s), whether you are a registered User, approximate date you began using the Services) and specify clearly what Information you would like to access, change, update, suppress, or delete.

Additionally, you may opt-out of:

Electronic Communications From Us – If you no longer want to receive marketing-related emails from us on a going-forward basis, you may opt-out of receiving these marketing-related emails by (a) changing or editing your preferences of your User Account using the User Account settings (as described above), (b) contacting us via email in accordance with the procedure set forth above, and/or (c) using the opt-out mechanism that is contained in each such email. Please note that there are certain service notification emails that you may not opt-out of, such as notifications of changes to the Services or policies.

Third Party Marketing Purposes – You may request that we do not share your Personal Information on a going-forward basis with third parties for their direct marketing purposes by contacting us via email in accordance with the procedure set forth above.

For any of the foregoing requests, we may request certain information to verify your identity. For all requests, we will strive to respond as soon as reasonably practicable.

Opting-Out Of Use Of Certain Information Collected By Tracking Technologies

Tracking Technologies Set by Third Party Advertising Service Providers and Similar Third Parties – For more information about Third Party Advertising Service Providers and similar entities that use tracking technologies, see www.aboutads.info/consumers, and to opt-out of such Third Party Advertising Service Providers advertising practices, go to www.aboutads.info/choices.

Tracking Technologies That We Use and Set on the Services – Most browsers are initially set to accept cookies (other than Flash cookies), but you can change your settings to notify you when a cookie is being set or updated, or to block cookies altogether. Please consult the “Help” section of your browser for more information. Users can manage the use of Flash technologies, with the Flash management tools available at Adobe’s website, see http://www.adobe.com/products/flashplayer/security/privacy_policy/faq.html .

Certain browsers transmit “do-not-track” signals to the websites in which such browsers communicate with; however, this feature, and how it is used and activated, varies from browser to browser. It is not clear whether the signals are intentionally transmitted by a User, or whether a User is even aware of this. Despite current efforts, there is still disagreement amongst leading Internet standards organizations, industry groups, technology companies and regulators, concerning what, if anything, websites should do when they receive such signals and no standard has been adopted to date. With respect to “do not track signals”, we currently do not take action in response to these signals, but, if a standard is established and accepted, we may reassess how to respond to these signals.

Please note that by blocking any or all cookies you may not have access to certain features, content and/or other personalization available through the Services.

Security

While no data transmission over the Internet is 100% secure from intrusion, we maintain commercially reasonable physical, electronic and procedural safeguards to protect your Information. Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not completely secure. Although we do our best to protect your Information, we cannot guarantee the security of your Information transmitted to or through the Services. Any transmission of Information is at your own risk. We are not responsible for circumvention of any privacy settings or security measures contained on the Services.

Linked Services

The Services may be linked to other sites and platforms operated by other companies, including, without limitation, Third Party Services. The Services may also feature advertisements from other third parties. Techlent is not responsible for the privacy practices of such other sites and platforms or other services operated by third parties that are linked to or integrated with the Services or for the privacy practices of Third Party Online Advertising Services. Once you leave the Services via such a link, access a third party application or click on an advertisement, you should check the applicable privacy policy of the third party.

Changes To Our Privacy Policy

It is our policy to post any changes we make to our Privacy Policy on the Services with a notice that the Privacy Policy has been updated on the Site homepage. If we make material changes to this Privacy Policy that expand our rights to use the Personal Information we have already collected from you, we will notify you and provide you with a choice about our future use of such Personal Information. Please look at the Effective Date at the top of this Privacy Policy to see when this Privacy Policy was last revised. Any changes to this Privacy Policy will become effective immediately, when we post the revised Privacy Policy on the Services.

Contact Us

If you have questions about this Privacy Policy, please contact us at:

Email: contact@techlent.net

Techlent, Inc

887 Sextant Ct,

San Mateo, CA 94404

This privacy policy was last Updated on June 8, 2019.